Bald Eagle with Lead Poisoning

Majestic’ bald eagle being treated for lead poisoning at raptor center

Susan Stamy Director of the Braveheart Raptor Rehabilitation Center with help from Beth Pickard administer treatment to a female Bald Eagle for lead poisoning and an injured talon in Twin Lake, Mich. on Mach 7, 2016. Stamy is proceeding forward with a treatment plan that is expected to end with the eagle being released back in the Muskegon State Park area, although lead poisoning can be deadly for birds. If all goes well, the treatments could last a month or two before the eagle is well enough to return to the wild. Lead from ammo or fishing equipment is the likely source. (Joel Bissell | MLive.com)

MUSKEGON COUNTY, MI – The trained raptor professional opened the gate to the cage, reached in and carefully grabbed hold of an injured bald eagle that also was battling a potentially fatal disease.

“Hey, pretty lady,” Susan Stamy said to the eagle as she picked her up Monday morning. “It’s OK, sweetie. We’ve got to do this. You’re a good girl.”

Stamy, director of the Braveheart Raptor Rehabilitation Center in Twin Lake, and one of the center’s board members, Beth Pickard, were in the process of administering treatment for lead poisoning. Stamy said the treatments – administered twice a day for five days, then two days off, before repeating the cycle – are uncomfortable and painful for the eagle.

However, the treatments are necessary.

Unable to fly, the bald eagle was found Thursday under some shrubs near the edge of Muskegon Lake in the Snug Harbor area of Muskegon State Park. Her ability to walk also was compromised, likely due to the lead poisoning, and she bruised her wing while using it as support while walking about a mile, according to those who tracked her and found her. The tracks featured talon marks and a brushed spot where the eagle’s wing was hitting the ground. The eagle also trembled at times.

Stamy is proceeding with a treatment plan that is expected to end with the eagle being released back in the Muskegon State Park area, although lead poisoning can be deadly for birds. If all goes well, the treatments could last a month or two before the eagle is well enough to return to the wild.

The large female eagle, weighing 9.8 pounds when she was taken in, wiggled in the hugging grasp of Pickard as Stamy administered the treatment. The eagle’s head moved side to side as it looked around the building at the Braveheart Center.

“It’s OK. No one is going to hurt you,” Stamy said while trying to calm the bird to finish the treatment. “I’m sorry, girl. You have to settle down. We’ll try to do this as quickly as we can.”

Stamy also tended to one of the bird’s talons. She said the eagle likely cut its talon while walking and the injury became infected.

With the treatment completed, the eagle was put back into its cage to feed on a quail.

Stamy called this case “very preventable.” She said the bald eagle being treated had to get lead poisoning from either ammunition or fishing equipment. She pointed out that the eagle must have ingested lead by feasting on a deer gut pile or the body of a dead deer that had been shot or eating a fish that had a sinker or jig in it.
This is such a senseless thing to happen in this day and age with that lead out there," Stamy said, explaining she has nothing against hunting and fishing. "We now have non-lead ammo and fishing gear."

The eagle had previously been banded. They expect to learn the age of the eagle in a couple of days based on the information garnered with the number on the band.

Pickard said eagles can live up to 30-40 years, but this eagle’s life span has likely been curtailed by the lead poisoning.

Kay Kotzian, 70, of Laketon Township, brought the eagle to the Braveheart Center on Thursday. Kay Kotzian and her husband Larry also were part of the search group that located the eagle. The search group included several interested residents, including Muskegon State Park ranger Matt Schwemin.

After a girl spotted the eagle on Thursday, the search group went out hoping to find the injured bird. Larry Kotzian followed some tracks and found the eagle under the shrubs. He put his coat over the eagle and carried it to a spot where they had a sled, basket and blankets.

“It was an once-in-a-lifetime experience,” Larry Kotzian said. “Once I got the coat around, it seemed to relax.”

They transferred the eagle to their car and took her to the Braveheart Center.

“I hike out there every day,” Kay Kotzian said. “I always keep track of them and photograph them.”

She pointed to their “majestic beauty” and they are “such good parents and very dedicated to their partners” as reasons for her fascination with eagles.

Stamy said she believes the eagle’s mate did a good job taking care of the eagle with lead poisoning, likely bringing her food.

The Braveheart Raptor Rehabilitation Center is one of four centers on the western side of Michigan dealing exclusively with birds of prey, otherwise known as raptors.

The non-profit center, which opened in 2007, is designed to rehabilitate sick, injured and/or orphaned raptors and return them to the wild in fit condition. Another primary goal of the center is to educate the public, particular school-age children, about wildlife conservation, ecology and habitat preservation.

The center is funded with cash and in-kind donations. For more information on the center, contact Stamy at 231-821-9125 or sstamy0951@aol.com.

Cottontail Shoots The Sun
At one time, the sky was too low, and the sun burned everything. The people were unhappy. Cottontail said that he would kill the sun. He started off toward the east. He crossed over many mountains, always it seemed that the sun was just over the next mountain. Finally, he came to the ocean and could go no further. Cottontail thought about how he would kill the sun. He had made many arrows to shoot the sun. He dug a series of tunnels that twisted in every direction. This was his escape path in case he did not succeed. That night, He settled down in his hole to wait for the sun. The next morning Cottontail watched as the sun came up over the horizon. He waited until the sun was directly overhead. Then, he jumped out of his hole, shot an arrow into the sun and jumped back into his hole. The arrow burned up before reaching the sun. Cottontail shot at the sun again and again until he had run out of arrows. Not one of the arrows reached the sun. Cottontail searched around until he found a roll of slow burn bark (a type of sage) that was about as long as one of his arrows. He shot this at the sun. The sun fell down dead. As the sun fell, everything caught on fire. Cottontail dove into his hole to hide. He was burned on parts of his body, which is why today parts of his body are charcoal colored.

When the earth had cooled down, Cottontail came out of his hole. He wanted to make a new sun. He gutted the sun, and took out its gall. He wanted to make a new sun with the gall, but it had green spots on it. So this he made into the moon. He took out the sun’s bladder. It had two holes in it where the arrow had gone through. Cottontail sewed up all the holes in the bladder and blew it up. It made a fine sun. Cottontail pushed the sky up with his head and threw the sun and the moon up to it. Now the sun was no longer too hot. Both Cottontail and the sun headed west toward home.
Some Earthday Ideas

Spread the good message
Most importantly: start talking about and flag openly about your decision. To reduce your own carbon footprint is to take personal responsibility for your own and future generations’ welfare and safety. By your actions, you can inspire others to follow your track.

Buy pleasures rather than things:
It is far more climate-friendly spending money on services and entertainment, rather than buying physical things. Treat yourself to great experiences, but do so locally. Because if you board an airplane, the climate gains go out the window. For instance, visit a local spa resort or holiday inn instead of flying off for a big city weekend.

Energy efficient home:
Turn off the computer and lights when not in use. Save on heating and cooling. Get the isolation in your home checked. Put solar panels on the roofs or purchase shares in a local wind turbine project.

Recycle creatively:
Swap clothes with friends or become member of a dress exchange concept like Reycle. Find the children’s clothes at local flea markets. If it is in good condition, it will last until they grow out of it. Repair instead of throwing out. Use canvas shopping bags and re-useable packaging. Join exchange groups on Facebook and email. For example, become a member of freecycle.org.

Using muscle power and electricity for the transport:
Start walking more and using your bike more often. Take the stairs instead of the elevator. Buy an electric car. Enter a car sharing scheme. Make use of public transport, in particular trains and trams.

Streamline your way of working:
Use Skype instead of traveling around the world for meetings and conferences. If you live far from your work place, consider moving closer. Have days where you work from home.

National Child Abuse Prevention Month (April 2016)

April was first declared Child Abuse Prevention Month by presidential proclamation in 1983. Since then, April has been a time to acknowledge the importance of families and communities working together to prevent child abuse. In Child Maltreatment 2014 (U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration on Children, Youth and Families, Children’s Bureau) it was reported that in FFY 2014 in the fifty states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico, an estimated 646,261 children were victims of child abuse or neglect; and 1,580 children died as a result of abuse or neglect. The majority of child abuse cases stemmed from situations and conditions that can be preventable when community programs and systems are engaged and supportive. A community that cares about early childhood development, parental support, and maternal mental health, for instance, is more likely to foster nurturing families and healthy children.

A body of research has identified factors known to prevent and reduce child abuse and neglect. These factors—including parental resilience, nurturing and attachment, social connections, knowledge about parenting and child development, social and emotional competence of children, and concrete supports for parents—are outlined in Preventing Child Maltreatment and Promoting Well-Being: A Network for Action 2015 Resource Guide, also developed by the Children’s Bureau.

In recognition of the collaborations needed to help prevent child abuse and neglect, the NCTSN has compiled a list of resources for advocates and policy makers, children and adolescents, educators, families and communities, and mental health and child welfare professionals.
Presenters Call

23rd Annual Anishinaabe Family Language and Culture Camp 2016

Aanii

We are looking for presenters for this year’s camp; this will allow for plenty of time for everyone. This year’s camp will be held on July 30th, July 31 2016. If you are interested in being a presenter, we will need a presentation outline and a biography. We will need two different presentation outlines and some presenters may be asked to present up to three different times. Each presentation should be approximately 1 ½ hours long, but if you have a presentation that requires a longer amount of time, please let us know in order to accommodate your workshop. Please also let us know if your presentation is meant to target a particular age group or other demographic.

We also need to know if your workshop is total Anishinaabemowin immersion, if you will have a translator or if you will be presenting in the English language with some Anishinaabemowin. Please note that if you have handouts for your presentation, you are responsible for making sure you have enough copies because there are no copiers on site.

Just as a note, most of our guests do not speak Anishinaabemowin and some understand it, but do not speak it yet. For some of our guests, this is the only time that they get to hear Anishinaabemowin being used. It would be appreciated for all of the presenters to remain visible throughout the camp and to be available to speak in Anishinaabemowin. We have had successful Camps because of the good presenters that have participated. We attend one another’s presentations and socialize with the guests; we support one another and love our language.

Along with your presentation outline and biography, we will also need to know if you require lodging. Please send all of your information by email as soon as possible and do not wait until the last minute otherwise you may not make it on the presenter list. It would be appreciated if your presentation outline and biography could be sent as separately attached documents in the email. It’s just easier for us when we process our program book. (Phone calls are accepted to state your interest in presenting, but the written information is required by the deadline for consideration.)

If you know anyone who may be interested in presenting at the Camp, by all means, please forward this letter to them and have them state in their email who recommended them to present. The deadline for all of this information is May 10, 2016

Cigarette Purchases:
Tribal members are NOT allowed to purchase tax-exempt tobacco products for non-members (including family members) who are not eligible for the exemption. Tax-exempt purchases are for the Tribal member’s personal use only.

It is against the law for Tribal members to purchase tax-exempt tobacco products for non-members. Tribal members are NOT allowed to purchase tax-exempt tobacco products for other tribal members who have already reached their monthly quota. Please see the Regulation excerpt below regarding penalties that will be assessed.

Tribal Regulation #R100-02:AC-07 Chapter 7, Tobacco Products. 3-6. Civil Penalties; Remedies.
b. Any person who violates Section 3-5(a) by purchasing tax-exempt tobacco products for, or selling tax-exempt tobacco products to, any person not entitled to purchase the same under the terms of the Tax Agreement shall be guilty of a civil infraction and shall be subject to a civil penalty of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00). Each transaction by a person which violates Section 3-5(b) shall be treated as a separate offense.

c. Any Retailer who knowingly violates Section 3-5(b) shall be guilty of a civil infraction and shall be subject to a civil penalty of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00). Each transaction shall be treated as a separate offense.

Also, please remember that Tribal members are NOT allowed to purchase tax-exempt purchases on behalf of another eligible Tribal member. For example, you cannot purchase tax-exempt cigarettes for your Tribal parent, sibling, cousin, other relative, or friend because they are sick at home, working late, or unable to get to the Trading Post to make their own purchase. The tax-exempt tobacco purchase MUST be for the Tribal member purchasing it at the time of sale.

All Tribal members purchasing tax-exempt cigarettes MUST show their Tribal ID to the cashier on duty and complete the appropriate purchase log at the counter. There have been multiple issues with members not signing the log, and/or not completely filling out all of the information requested.

Motor Fuel Purchases:
All Tribal members are required to be registered for the tax-exempt Motor Fuel program. Fueling a vehicle that is not registered with the Tax Office is strictly prohibited. The penalty for purchasing tax-exempt fuel for any person not entitled to purchase it is $100 per transaction plus suspension of tax-exempt purchase privileges for up to one year.

The rules clearly state that Tribal members must register the vehicle that they are purchasing tax-exempt fuel for. There is no provision for purchasing fuel for a non-member’s vehicle unless you are a disabled Tribal member that has registered with an “authorized purchaser”. The Tax Office and the Little River Trading Post have Motor Fuel Registration forms available. If you need a Disabled Registration form, please contact the Tax Office.

Only Tribal members are entitled to buy and use tax-exempt fuel purchased under the terms of the State/Tribe Tax Agreement. The exemption does not extend to friends or family members that are not Tribal members. Enforcing this rule is difficult because it is hard to know how the fuel will be used once the vehicle leaves the station. The ultimate use of the fuel must be trusted to the integrity of the Tribal member. However, at the point of sale, the staff have been instructed to enforce the Tax-Exempt Motor Fuel program rules. This includes, but is not limited to: disallowing the discount on fuel purchased for a vehicle that the Tribal member is not using at the point of sale.

Tribal members that purchase fuel for a non-member or exceed their monthly purchase limit will receive a tax assessment. The following schedule outlines the enforcement procedure that is followed.

PROCEDURES TO BE USED WHEN PURCHASING TAX-EXEMPT FUEL ARE AS FOLLOWS:
Payment for all tax-exempt fuel purchases must be made inside the gas station AFTER fuel has been pumped. Tribal members SHOULD NOT pay for fuel at the pump.
After pumping the desired amount of gas, proceed inside the station and inform the attendant on duty that you are a Little River Band member and are eligible for a tax exemption on your motor fuel purchase before they ring up your sale.

Present your Little River Band picture I.D. card to the attendant for verification. They are required to verify the name, number, and picture on your I.D. card. They cannot give you the discount if you do not have your I.D. card present at the time of purchase. Plus, there may be a new attendant on duty who does not know Tribal members and their names, so it is always necessary to provide your I.D. card.

The attendant will ask you to complete the “Log of tax-exempt sales”. You must enter the date, your Tribal I.D. number, signature, license plate number and number of gallons purchased. Refusal to provide this information will result in denial of your tax exemption. Also, so that your purchase does not get logged incorrectly, please write clearly so that it can be read for data entry.

Tribal members may NOT purchase fuel for a non-Tribal member’s use. Doing so will result in suspension of your tax-exempt purchase privileges. Additional penalties may also be assessed as outlined in the Motor Fuel Regulations.

Keep track of your gallons so you don’t go over the monthly limit. The penalties for over-limit purchases could cancel out any savings you realize on your fuel purchases.

Again, a Tribal member cannot purchase tax-exempt fuel for a vehicle that is being used by a non-Tribal member. The penalty is $100 for each offense (per Tribal Regulation #R100-AC-08, §3-8 (b)). The fuel discount will not be given for two separate vehicles at one purchase! Do not ask for this exemption unless the second vehicle is being towed or is on a trailer pulled by the vehicle the Tribal member is using.

Your Responsibility
Tribal members are responsible for staying within their monthly limit. It is not the job of the Little River Trading Post to track your purchases and it is not their fault if you go over your limit. Failure to stay within the limit will result in a tax assessment and penalty plus suspension of tax-exempt purchase privileges until the assessed amount is paid in full.

Certificates of Exemption for Resident Tribal Members

Resident Tribal Members must contact the Tax Office for a Tribal Certificate of Exemption BEFORE purchasing a personal use vehicle and/or construction materials for their personal residence tax-exempt. There are no provisions for receiving a refund after the sale is completed. If you sign a contract that includes Michigan Sales or Use Tax, it will be a taxable purchase. Application forms are available on the Tax Office page of the LRBOI website under “Resident Tribal Member Information.”

It takes time to prepare the paperwork required by the State of Michigan before you can get your tax exemption. The certificate also requires an authorized signature, which may take additional time to obtain. Sometimes the Tribal member is eligible but only after they provide Proof of Residency to become a Resident Tribal member, which then takes more time for the complete process. On occasion, the Tax Office may be closed for a meeting, work assignments outside of the office, on vacation, or assisting another Tribal member and not be readily available. The Tax Office consists of only one staff member. The best advice is to plan ahead and contact the Tax Office once you know what you are going to buy, but before you complete the bill of sale. No refunds can be given for sales taxes paid because a Tribal Certificate of Exemption was not obtained.

To contact the Tax Office:

Valerie Chandler,
Staff Accountant
Tax Officer at

Remember:

Tribal members are responsible for tracking their own purchases. Do not rely on the Trading Post to track your purchases for you.

How to Become a Resident Tribal Member

To become a Resident Tribal Member (RTM), a Little River Band Tribal Member must live within the Tax Agreement Area. The Tax Office maintains a list of Resident Tribal Members based on their physical address of record. On a monthly basis, the Tax Office sends name and address changes, obtained from the Enrollment Office, on the 15th to the Michigan Treasury Department. Resident Tribal Member status takes effect on the 1st day of the following month.

Proof of Residency for Resident Tribal Members

Proof of Residency is required for any address change to “Resident Tribal Member” status. This means that if you move, you will need to provide official documentation of your proof of residency in order to have “Resident Tribal Member” status. This applies, even if you are moving to a different address within the Tax Agreement Area.

A Proof of Residency must be on file for a Resident Tribal Member’s current address before a Certificate of Exemption can be issued for a tax-exempt purchase under the terms of § III(A)(2 &3) of the Tribe/State Tax Agreement. A Tribal member must live at the physical address within the Tax Agreement Area to benefit from the tax-exempt status.

Those members currently listed as “Resident Tribal Members” shall remain on the RTM list unless information is received by the Enrollment or Tax Department that flags a physical residence into question. In addition, RTMs using a mailing address outside of the Tax Agreement Area may be required to provide proof of physical residency for verification.

Resident Tribal Member Tax Exemption Certificates

Resident Tribal Members must apply to the Tax Office for a Tribal Certificate of Exemption BEFORE making a tax-exempt purchase. This includes a vehicle (including recreational) purchase or construction materials for affixation to the RTM’s personal residence. There are no provisions for receiving a refund after the sale is completed. Application forms are available on the Tax Office page of the LRBOI website under “Resident Tribal Member Information.” The application form must be completely filled out and signed before a Certificate will be issued. Again, RTMs must apply to the Tax Office for a Tribal Certificate of Exemption BEFORE making a tax-exempt purchase. Please plan ahead so that you’re not at the dealership calling and waiting for a Certificate because under occasional circumstances, the Tax Officer may be out of the office, in a meeting, or assisting another Tribal member.

Joint Purchases – A Resident Tribal Member shall qualify for a 50 percent exemption on purchases that are made by a Resident Tribal Member, or their non-Resident Tribal Member spouse, and exclusively titled in both their names.

If you have any questions about your specific location and if it falls within the Tax Agreement Area, Resident Tribal Member status, the Proof of Residency form and requirements, or the Certificate of Exemption process, please call the Tax Office at 231-398-6874 or 1-888-723-8288 ext. 6874. You can also access this information on the Tax Office page of the Tribe’s website at www.lrboi-nsn.gov

Tax-Exempt Quotas

Tax-exempt motor fuel monthly limit is 175 gallons per Tribal member.
Tax-exempt cigarette monthly limit is 25 packs per Tribal member.

Remember:

Tribal members are responsible for tracking their own purchases. Do not rely on the Trading Post to track your purchases for you.

BLAZE A TRAIL TO CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

Civic engagement means working to make a difference in the lives of community members. Community service and volunteering are common ways to refer to this engagement. No matter what you call it, older Americans are doing it, and in higher numbers than ever before.

Beyond helping and the people around you, being involved in your community benefits you. From preventing mental health issues by engaging in meaningful work to the physical benefits of being active and social, civic engagement is a win-win. It is never too late to give back!

GETTING INVOLVED

Schedule service that fits your lifestyle and determine how much time you want to give. If you are a morning person, the early shift at an animal shelter or reading to kids might be a good fit. 10-20 hours per week is common for many retirees.

Find the right opportunities. Volunteering works best when you involve your interests and skills. If you are handy, a Habitat for Humanity project may be most rewarding. If you enjoy working with kids, contact a local school to talk about ways you can help. Need inspiration? Visit http://serve.gov/ for more tips and ideas.

Check out the do-it-yourself guides at http://serve.gov/site-page/toolkits if you have trouble finding the right opportunity or you have an idea for a new project. These toolkits will help to turn your concept into a successful activity.

If you want to help others more informally, think about driving neighbors to appointments, babysitting for working parents, or tutoring kids in your neighborhood. If you are a member of a spiritual community or club, ask if there are outreach programs that need help.

TIP: ASK FRIENDS OR FAMILY TO JOIN YOU!

Or check with other older adults in your community. Studies show that being asked to get involved is a great motivator.

1 in 4 older Americans makes a positive impact through volunteering.

THE BENEFITS:

- Volunteering can lead to improved physical and mental health.
- Older volunteers report greater life satisfaction than non-volunteers.
- New relationships and making a difference provide a greater sense of purpose.
- Research suggests that those who volunteer are more likely to live longer.

Adult Conservator

What is a conservator?
A conservator is a person appointed by a probate court and given power and responsibility for the financial assets and property of an adult, called the protected individual. A conservator is a fiduciary and must account to the court regarding the management of the protected individual’s property.

When would a conservator be needed?
A conservator may be needed when the individual is unable to manage his or her property and financial affairs effectively because of certain reasons and: 1) he or she has property that will be wasted or used up unless proper management is provided; or 2) funds are needed for the support, care, and welfare of the adult and any of his or her dependents. A mentally competent adult who, because of age or physical limitation, may voluntarily petition the court himself or herself for the appointment of a conservator to assist in managing his/her estate.

Some of the reasons that might prevent the individual from being able to manage his or her property and financial affairs are:
1) mental illness or deficiency;
2) physical illness or disability;
3) chronic use of alcohol /other intoxicants;
4) confinement;
5) detention by a foreign power; or
6) disappearance.

Is a conservator always needed for an individual who cannot manage his or her property or financial affairs effectively?
A conservator might not be necessary if someone else already has legal authority (an individual with a Power of Attorney, for example) to make decisions about the individual’s estate and there are no problems with the decisions being made.

Who has priority to be appointed conservator?
1) A conservator, guardian of property, or similar fiduciary appointed or recognized by the appropriate court of another jurisdiction in which the protected individual resides.
2) An individual or corporation nominated by the protected individual if he or she is 14 years of age or older and of sufficient mental capacity to make an intelligent choice, including a nomination made in a durable power of attorney.
3) The protected individual’s spouse.
4) An adult child of the protected individual.
5) A parent of the protected individual.
6) A relative of the protected individual with whom he or she has resided for more than 6 months before the petition is filed.
7) A person nominated by the person who is caring for or paying benefits to the protected individual.
8) If none of the persons listed above are suitable and willing to be conservator, any person that the court determines is suitable and willing to be conservator.

How is a proceeding for a conservator started?
Any person who is interested in the individual’s welfare may complete a Petition for Appointment of Conservator and file it, along with the filing fee, with Tribal Court or the probate court.
Can mediation be used for disagreements about a conservator?
Certain disagreements about a request for a guardian may be mediated outside the court if all parties agree to attend mediation or if a judge orders the parties to attend mediation.
Can the individual get a conservator immediately in an emergency?
If the court believes an individual’s estate requires immediate protection before appointing a conservator, the court may issue a preliminary protective order. This order may involve the appointment of a special conservator. The order will authorize specific acts that provide for immediate protection of the individual’s assets.

She earned her Master's Degree in Library Information Science from Louisiana State University. As an Associate at Online Computer Library Center she helped launch online databases used by librarians worldwide. She worked as a library assistant at the Children's Center of the Ross Library helping with visual displays and outreach programs. She also worked with the James V. He told us that they were called "The Bald Eagle Mountains." It is a beautiful place where our Rosemary was laid to rest. Some of her nieces and nephews who traveled to attend the service in her honor saw a bald eagle flying high above in the skies of Lock Haven! We knew it had to be a sign of a blessing from the Creator. And we know Rosemary is now sharing in the glory of her God. In addition to her husband and mother, Rose is survived by four sisters, Kathleen B. Ross of Plainwell, MI, Barbara C. Caswell of Kalamazoo, MI, Joanne A. MacVean of Martin, MI, and Cheryl M. Kirschman of Three Rivers, MI. Rose was the beloved aunt of many nieces and nephews and beloved great-aunt of many great-nieces and great-nephews. She had many cousins in Michigan and California who loved her. A Mass of Christian Burial was on Wednesday, March 23, 2016, at 11 a.m. at St. Agnes Catholic Church, Lock Haven, PA with the Rev.
